

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are illiterate has increased from 400 million to 600 million.

It is not only illiterates who are excluded from the benefits of modernization. The vast majority of the world's population lives in rural areas, where the benefits of modernization are also limited.

As a result, the vast majority of the world's population lives in poverty. The number of people living on less than $1 a day has increased from 1 billion in 1980 to 2 billion in 1995. The number of people living on less than $2 a day has increased from 2 billion in 1980 to 3 billion in 1995.

The world is a vast and diverse place, and there are many different ways of life. However, the vast majority of the world's population lives in poverty, and the benefits of modernization are limited to a small elite.
